PAYMENT OF CHEQUES AT THE HONGKONG AND BHANGHAI BANK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." SIR,-The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation has its advantages doubtless, so far as giving facilities to its constituents is comperned, but at the same time it has its disadvantages, which in a Corporation of this sort should be remedied, and could be with a little trouble. The complaint I am about to make is one which has been a very general one for some time past and it goes a long way to preventing fresh constituents from petronising the concern. If a cheque is sent for payment the bearer, unless possibly he be a person well known to the officials is kept waiting for hours before he is at tended to. This is no figure of speech, but what institution with the pretensions of the Hougkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation .enclose my card and remain, yours, etc.

HE CHERGO TELEGRAPH CONVEN TION AND THE " CHINESE TIMES."

The N. C. Daily News than retorts on the the line is not far off being "a success." The troversy, particularly if it is a side of the conjudging from the jolting movement of knows perfectly well that the Telegraph Consons best known to himself, and not at all hadly known to the instructed world, he is obliged to make some attempt to impugn what he is geperous enough to call our " thoughtful article of the 12th October on the subject of the Convention. Our conclusions, he says, appear to be radically ansound. " but" (is this due to Mr. Hyde's absence?) "we have no space this week makes it, we are certain, in pure kindness of heart is in reference to our allusion to Sheng Tantal, the leading Chinese member of the Telograph "ring." All that we said of him was the convention it would be inconvenient to enquire into too closely." If the Chinese Times shoores to dot the i's in this sentence, by trauslating it into an accusation of corruption and want of probity, that is not our affair; but it is not the sort of defence that we should desire if we were Shang Taotai. As a patriotic official. Mr Shang cannot be delighted at being told that though " there is reason, to believe " that the allegations against his probity in connection with these negotiations are absolutely unfounded, yet -and it is the Chinese Times which says this -"corruption is so universal in China that any publicist may think himself safe in alleging it in any particular transaction."

After all, it is not our conclusions, inexpuga-ably sound as they are, on which we wish to lay stress; but the facts from which they are no attempt even to weaken. "Li Hung-chang has British Government that China can do the work much more cheaply than the Great Northern Telegraph Company, and the Great Northern, which has only a small piece of cable to keep up. more cheaply than the Eastern Extension, and he has drawn a terrible picture of a cut-throat competition following the non-ratification of the Convention, in which the Eastern Extension Company would be inevitably worsted, and would in the end be forced to close its business in the Far East, pick up its cables and retire altogether from the China Sen. He has asked the Government what it would do in the event of a war in these waters, if there were no English cable to Hongkong; and his thus frightened the Marquis of Salisbury into instructing Sir John Walsham to support the convention. We know, of course. how empty these threats are, and we hope that the Chambers of Commerce here and in Hongkong have telegraphed to the English Chambers to point out to the Foreign Office how wrong is the position it has taken. It is inpossible that when the Marquis of Salisbury finds that he is backing up a convention that to give Russia an advantage of over 30 per cent. in its telegraphing he will continue his support to it. We can imagine the howl of execution there would have been in the London Press if Lord Granville had proposed to do what Lord
